Chris --

We only had two specific contacts about the TASC, your group and ACME, both of whom were coordinated with for this meeting. We used the recent fact sheet to let the other folks who track the site know.

Dave,

I will be at meetings tomorrow (most likely).

At one time, you or Craig mentioned having more than one meeting for the community? I think this was because you know that there was a Simi group and a West Hills group? So did everyone get a TASC letter to the same meeting?

Chris --

I'm leaving early today, but will be back tomorrow. If you'd like, you can call me at your convenience tomorrow. Even better, you could reply to this e-mail about a time that you intend to call.

RE: health studies. The TASC can not conduct health studies, but it can look at site-specific health studies and help the community understand their content.

I checked with Luis Garcia-Bakarich, the TASC contract officer (and fellow Community Involvement Coordinator). He suggested that the best process was for all the members of the community who want to be involved with the TASC come to the meeting with their questions, issues and concerns, and that we work through them with the TASC contractor present.

Still, if you want to talk to me, you should always feel free to do that.

Talk to you tomorrow.
